THE PRESENTATION OF POINTS PECULIAR TO PYROTECHNY.

How Spectacular Combustion Finds a Market-Fireworks No Longer Monopolised by the Fourth of July-Collections for Corporation Celebrations.

One does not have to overhaul his memory to any great extent to reach back to the time when Independence day was the one day of the year when skyrockets and pinwheels asserted themselves as a symbol of our country's greatness. Along in the fall, it is true, when candidates for public office sought the suffrage of their fellow citizens, the Roman candle suppleented the oil torch as an adjunct of political processions. But, as a general rule, the fireworks that were not burned on Fourth of July night were carefully packed away for next year. It is not so any more. Pyrotechnic displays are prominent attractions at summer resorts 'all through the season, and the father of a family who takes his boys and girls in the country to pass the heated months not unfrequently adds a box of fireworks to the Large and Beneter that he courted

"This fireworks package business has wn to some considerable proportions, n't it?" asked the truth seeker. BOX COLLECTIONS.

"Well, I guess you'd think so," replied "Well, I guess you'd think so," replied the pyrotechnician. "We instituted the plan of putting up these box collections about sixteen years ago, and it has been growing more popular every year. Want to know why? Well, most people who buy fireworks for a Fourth of July celebration very naturally put off the purchase until the last minute. For that matter, most purchasers of any kind of goods do the same thing, but just ston matter, most purchasers of any kind of goods do the same thing, but just stop and think how the rule applies to fireworks when you consider what they are. It is not to be expected that a man would want a box of them lying around loose in his house for two or three weeks. Yes, if there's anything that's bought at the eleventh hour, its fireworks. Then, again, not one person in twenty knows what he wants. There is a general desire for something that will make a show, and perhaps make a noise, but the average perhaps make a noise, but the average man knows only the commonplace names of pieces that will produce certain effects.

They know what bengola lights, triangles and mines are, but we can't expect the president of a bank, or a man who has made a fortune in potatoes, to expend his valuable time in trying to learn the differace between a saucisson mine and a tourbillion rocket.

So we, as it were, do their thinking for them, and put up a collection according to our knowledge of results consistent with the price charged for it. It's very much cheaper for the purchaser, too. Now there's a collection packed ready for delivery. We charge 50 cents for it just as it stands. It contains thirty pieces—none of them very elaborate, it is true, but what do you suppose would have to read of them very elaborate, it is true, but what do you suppose you'd have to pay for them if you came in here and puttered around our stock, selecting this one here and that one there, and wasting at least half an hour's time in doing it? Well, here's our catalogue, and you can see at ence that, if you bought each one of those thirty pieces at retail, you'd have to pay something over $1 for the lot, and they wouldn't be so compactly packed for delivery either. How could they be, under the circumstances?

CORPORATION CELEBRATIONS. "How expensive a collection do you put

To any amount that a customer wants, for that matter, with corresponding rates of discount as between wholesale and retail prices, but for regular catalogue goods we have a $100 collection. This is adequate to a complete town or corporation celebration, and contains goods that would cost, at retail, just double the money. There are pieces in it whose prices range from $5 to $15 when purchased singly." What do you mean by corporation

"I'll tell you. There are lots of manu-"I'll tell you. There are lots of manufacturing concerns that come to us every year and buy a collection of fireworks for their mills up in the country. Only the other day a mill superintendent came in and gave me a $50 order. 'It keeps the boys at home,' he said, 'and they spend their money right in town instead of coming to Boston.' Very frequently the local tradesmen chip in with the mills for a fireworks display for this reason.

"But, of course, we don't have to depend upon the Fourth of July alone for business. You know it has become the regular thing to have pyrotechnic displays at the summer resorts, and excursion at the summer resorts, and excursion parties often consider a box of fireworks as necessary to a good time as a basket of

There's one point about them that's worth consideration. Not the noise especially—of course we expect that Monotony of Farm Life. The monotony of farm life and its attendant dangers are well shown by the fact that the large majority of the inmates of our insane asylums have been farmers or their wives. The never ending round of work, with no opportunities for amusement, are the predominant features of such life. The dangers to physical health are also many. The water supply is too often contaminated by surface water containing decomposing angual and verstable. often containmated by surface water con-taining decomposing animal and vegetable matters, while the sleeping rooms, in win-ter especially, are too frequently badly ventilated, and too warm or too cold. The need of change of scene, of air and of water is as pressing for the farmer and his family as for the merchant and the society lady.—Globe-Democrat.

The Perilous Bar.

It is a source of mortification to the "old salts" of New York city that their harbor is nowhere deep enough, even in full front of the Atlantie, to permit a steamer in distress to reach a point of safety inside of the perilous bar. The disabled and leaky Britannic was detained outside a long time because she drows outside a long time because she draws thirty feet of water, and if a storm had arisen she would probably have been sunk in sight of land.—Chicago Times.

Brass Signs and Door Plates. New ways of making a living continue to present themselves. The professional brass sign polisher dropped in to solicit a job from me this week. He carried his kit under his arm and was willing to contract to keep the brass sign which I might own, but do not, dazzling to the eye for a fixed sum per month. He looked as if the trade was not a bad one, for he was loaned for 25 cents.

ently dressed and jingled some money in his pocket. I saw him next day busy on a store front where there are seven signs and noticed that he worked quite expeditiously and effectively. As brass signs tarnish over night and are as numerous as wooden ones once were here, I should not be astonished if my visitor died a millionaire.

Speaking of brass signs, how completely the door plate has gone out of fashion. When I came to New York to work for a living a door plate was as essential an in-signia of gentility as a bank account, and signs of gentinty as a bank account, and shops where they were sold were to be found everywhere. On the residence streets of the better class at a certain hour every morning you would see a servant on every stoop polishing the plate up before its owner had his breakfast. The door plate was with us what the marble front step is to the Philadelphian. Philadelphia's front steps are there yet. Our door plates have become things of the past, found only on old fashioned houses without pretensions to style. Their places have probably been taken by the coats of arms which fashionable New York new parts of the probable York now pays a clever Frenchman to invent or borrow for it.—Alfred Trumble in New York News.

The Fascinating Gypsy Woman.

I marvel if there exists another of human kind so wise in all unwisdom, so knowing in all that beclouds others, so cunning in all that is valueless to the world, so adept in all that bewilders the ignorant, so keen in all that blunts and dulls those that yield to be really acceptating in all yield to her spells, so fascinating in all that which, sorted and sifted for human service, is so utterly trivial and unwhole some. In contemplating the gypsy woman through years of study, I have never been able to get away from the notion of her likeness to a splendid wild animal, a leop-ard or a tigress, trained to matchless demureness and humility by some Hindoo magician, still under the lash of the black art master, capable of strangest attraction in wondrous eyes and supple movement; and possessing a charm of mystery, of power, of suppressed ferocity and a deadly fascination which magically sway and hold in such subtle way as can only be felt, and can never be told. Thing of the night and mystery she certainly is. Human, as we weigh humanity, she is not.—Edgar L. Wakeman's Letter.

Among her trees are some which have peculiar properties, the Ohio buckeye, for instance. The fruit and roots of this tree are used by Indians on their fishing expression. They put the on their fishing excursions. They put the roots and fruit in a bag, and drag the latter through the water. In an hour or so the fish rise to the surface dead. Cattle die after eating of the fruit or leaves.
